

EXPECT BOOM IN STATE BITUMINOUS
COAL INDUSTRY

Western Part of State Will Probably Be at Top of
The Ladder

EXPECT IMPROVEMENT

Mining Situation Undoubtedly Will Be Much Different

PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 9—(INS)—Western Pennsylvania is expecting a boom in the bituminous coal industry that will enable the section to sit once again at the top of the soft coal producing ladder.

Following a recent favorable decision by the Interstate Commerce Commission in regard to the so-called "lake cargo" coal freight rates charged by railroads, observers here predicted an advance of the product into the northwestern states of the country, whose needs have been supplied for the past few years by southern West Virginia, Kentucky and other southern coal fields.

Fighting alleged discriminatory freight rates, western Pennsylvania finally won the battle when the Interstate Commerce Commission approved reductions of 20 cents per ton on coal cargoes transported by rail to the Great Lakes from the northern bituminous regions.

The commission's action, coal circles here hope, will restore to this section the market in the northwest whose coal appetite had been fed almost wholly by the bituminous product mined in this section of Pennsylvania.

Thirty million tons of coal, according to statistics here, is the average annual consumption of the northwestern states affected by the ruling on freight rates. Of this, it was pointed out, only 2,000,000 tons had been shipped annually from this section's mines during the last few years.

Largely because of the allegedly prejudicial freight rates in the south, it was argued before the commission, southern producing sections had assumed an unrightfully dominating position in the bituminous market and the depression in this part of the state was going from bad to worse.

Now, however, the coal industry here almost wears a smile on its dusky countenance. Leaders of the fight for lower rates—coal companies, Chambers of Commerce and newspapers—expect that an improvement in the mining situation will act as a tonic to improve the somewhat run-down condition of other businesses in the Pittsburgh district.

Langhorne

The residence of Frank C. Osmond is in the hands of the painter. Bernard Stradling has the contract.

Nat Potashnick and son, Max, left Wednesday by motor for points in Ohio, Wisconsin and Canada for the purchase of stock for local sales.

Mr. and Mrs. Tinley Knotts, of Hillcrest, N. J., and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Knotts have returned from a motor trip to Townsend, Del.

Mrs. Russell P. Clayton and Harold Clayton, of Kingston, N. Y., were recently visiting relatives in this locality.

Mrs. Ida D. VanHorn, of Philadelphia, has been visiting friends in Langhorne.

The Misses Margaretta and Edith Gatchell, of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., are spending their vacation with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund R. Gatchell.

Miss Hilda Baker is spending several weeks with her school friend, Miss Mildred Shephard at Erie, Pa.

Mrs. Samuel F. Beach, of Morrisstown, N. J., is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Henry Cunningham.

Work has been started on the new house of Praul Vansant on Gilliam avenue.

William Meldrum is making alterations on the Wildman property which he recently purchased.

Miss Helen Vansant, of Somerton, was a recent guest of A. P. Townsend and family.

Our druggist, Raymond A. Acuff, has improved his property, corner Bellevue and Richardson avenue with a fresh coat of paint.

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Beidler, of Langhorne Manor, announce the engagement of their daughter, Esther Marian Beidler to James Bentley Candy, 3rd, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Bentley Candy, of Langhorne.

HULMEVILLE

The members of the Hulmeville M. E. Epworth League Society will journey to Newtown this evening, when the July business meeting will be held at the home of Messrs. Samuel and David Hibbs. The trip will be made in automobiles.

VISITS HERE

Miss Annie Fetsenstein, formerly of Bristol, now of Philadelphia, spent the week-end here as the guest of Miss Evelyn Breiler, of Mill street.

Route Followed by Italian Aces

Over mountain crags, tropical jungles and a hazardous stretch of the South Atlantic, the Italian aces, Captain Arturo Ferrarin (inset at bottom), and Major Carlo del Prete, flew their Fiat-motored monoplane Savoia at a speed of 135 miles per hour—the fastest time ever made by a trans-oceanic plane. The map traces their course southward from Rome to Brazil, a distance of 4,600 miles.

ST. ANN'S POUND FINE
FOR THIRTEEN HITS

Reap Eight Runs Against Six
For the Losing Side

MANY WITNESS GAME

By T. M. Junc

Pounding "Bill" Fine's slants for thirteen solid swats, St. Ann's romped home with an 8 to 6 victory over the strong Field Club nine. The victory gives St. Ann's the first half championship.

A large crowd which braved the boiling sun witnessed the combat of the evenly matched teams. At two o'clock, one and a half hour before game time, the mob began to fill in the seats along first base line where it is shady. One half hour before the game started, every seat on the benches was taken and the crowd extended along the first base line clear into right field. The fans along left field line formed bleachers by taking advantage of the large rocks situated there.

Tullo served them for the "Saints" and pitched very good ball allowing the Field Club sluggers but eight hits. Though he was in tight holes several times, he kept a cool head and pulled through without any real damage done.

Field Club put on the field its strongest line-up, but Hibbs was the only player on the team who collected more than one single from Tullo's curves. McGerr played a bang-up game at third base. Kohler robbed Stallone out of a nice hit.

St. Ann's put their same team on the field. O'Riella made several impossible catches look easy and saved his mates a few errors by his lanky reach. "Eddie" Roe was at short and handled himself perfectly. "Eddie" had a nail off on one of his toes, but was out there playing with only one shoe on.

"Eddie" collected three safe socks and each aided in the run-scoring. Roe certainly does keep the champions hustling.

Gilardi found his eye yesterday and came through with a double and two singles. Missera batted a thousand, getting a walk, a double, being hit by a pitched ball and a single. Paletta held up well at third base, stopping the grounders that came his way. Fields played a wonderful game out in right, nabbing three hard flies. Stallone handled Tullo's shoots well.

Gilardi flashed some wonderful base-running in the ninth when he scored from second on a bunt to the pitcher.

Fields opened the game as usual with a single and stole second. Gilardi struck out. Roe came through with a hit that scored Fields. Paletta lifted to Beaton. Oriella rolled to Fine.

Beaton started the Field Club off with a hit which fell in front of Missera. Dugan's short fly was handled by Fields. Tullo took care of J. Fine's lift. Deitrick hit to Roe and went out.

Two more went up for the "Saints" in the second. Stallone fled to Kohler. Missera was passed. Missera went to second, while Beaton was throwing out Seneca. Tullo singled to right scoring Missera. Fields singled past McGee, advancing Tullo. Gilardi biffed a hit to left, Tullo counting and Fields stopping at third. Gilardi ran Fields off third and he was tagged out. Deitrick to W. Fine to Beaton to J.

NO RELIEF IN SIGHT FROM HEAT WAVE
UNTIL TOMORROW — TORRID WEEK-END FORCES
SWELTERING POPULACE TO SEEK COOL SPOTS

Many Motor to Outlying Sections in Search of Breeze —
Swimming Places Packed to Capacity All Day Long —
Shady Nooks Are Sought

After enduring the sweltering rays of the hot July sun as long as they could many families from this section of Bucks County packed lunches, piled the various members of the household in whatever vehicle was available, and made for the coolest spot they could locate, yesterday.

The shady spots of fields, country school-house lawns, and nooks along the rivers, creek and smaller streams of the country accommodated many old and young in their quest for a cooling breeze.

The cool wind, which all sought for was not forthcoming, however, all during the torrid week-end as the thermometer hovered in the nineties. The looked-for storm, which many predicted must surely follow had not arrived yet today.

The river, canal, basin and other streams for several miles around were packed with throngs of bathers all during Saturday and Sunday.

The temperature reached such a height that even the beetle-hunters were forced to desist from their efforts.

Even those not usually troubled with insomnia walked the streets during the wee hours of the morning, seeking relief.

Another oddity of nature, which thrilled many on Saturday night as they stopped to gaze at the sky, was the reflection of the Northern light. A large portion of the "inverted bowl" to the north was covered with a pretty shade of red, while streaks of white and blue in their order, gave forth the colors of the American flag.

NEW YORK, July 9—(INS)—Deaths reported early today brought the total fatalities charged directly or indirectly to New York's record, smothering heat wave to twenty-eight. Many others still in hospitals were said to be in critical condition.

Relief from the heat was expected tonight when thundershowers are predicted. However, the forecast for today was continued warm.

Dispatches told of the breaking of the heat wave in the middle west after thirty persons had died. Thermometers there ranged up to 100 degrees. Washington reported one death from the heat with the mercury at 95 degrees.

The season's hottest day, sent the mercury in New York City to 91 degrees in the shade, with thermometers in the sun registering as high as 108 degrees.

PHILADELPHIA, July 9—(INS)—Today will be another "scorching" if we are to believe the weatherman.

Generally fair and continued warm is the forecast for this section today with relief promised tomorrow. Cool breezes and local thunder showers are forecast for Tuesday.

Though the official weather bureau thermometer on top of the Federal Building here registered 91 degrees yesterday, the mercury in unofficial thermometers on the ground rose above the 96 mark.

Though no deaths were attributed directly to the heat wave a number were overcome.

CARD PARTY AND DANCE
GIVEN BY THE FIREMEN

Affair Held in Pavilion at Burlington Island Park,
Saturday Night

PRIZES WERE AWARDED

Members and the Ladies' Auxiliary of America Hose, Hook and Ladder Company, No. 2, gave a card party and dance at Burlington Island Park on Saturday evening. The pavilion was filled to capacity and a most enjoyable time was had by all those present.

"500" and pinochle were played and those who did not play cards danced to the strains of the American Legion orchestra. Many beautiful prizes were awarded the card players, as well as to the dancers, same being given for spot dance, number dance, etc. Some of the prizes consisted of end tables, trays, small rugs, perfumes, writing paper, men's and women's apparel, etc.

The "500" winners were: Eleanor Clements, 3460; Mary Dugan, 2950; May Force, 2440; Mrs. McGee, 2440; M. Gallagher, 2290; M. Sackville, 2200; Mrs. Eva Beaton, 2180; Mrs. M. Boltz, 2120; Margaret McFadden, 1940; John Rafferty, 1720; Mrs. William Ennis, 1660.

Pinochle winners were: Firman Pope, 584; Edna Burbank, 554; Harry B. Clegg, 543; Mrs. E. Hetherington, 534; Julia Prickett, 530; Mrs. Russell Wills, 529; Ralph Walker, 522; Joseph Britton, 521; Mrs. Warren Thompson, 515; Harvey Cochran, 500; William Bilger, 481; Mrs. Lamont Marsh, 471; Mrs. Edith Taylor, 460.

It is estimated that a neat sum will be realized.

WARRANT ISSUED FOR CONSTABLE CRAWFORD

Charged With Beating One-
Armed Man Into Submission
At Hulmeville

TO BE GIVEN A HEARING

Charged with beating a one-armed man into submission in order that he might arrest him, Constable Thomas Crawford, Bristol township, faces a court action.

A warrant for Crawford's arrest has been issued upon the affidavit of George Eastburn, Hulmeville. The warrant was issued by Justice of the Peace Irvin M. James, Doylestown. Crawford was arrested today by Constable Atkinson, of Doylestown.

The charge of aggravated assault and battery was brought by George Eastburn, a lodger at the home of Edward Mitch, Sr., of Hulmeville, at whose home there occurred a general free-for-all fight on July 4 when police arrested Mitch and his son and daughter and Eastburn.

Eastburn appeared at the county seat with his face black and blue from what he said were blackjack marks and bruises. He is a man with only one arm and only several fingers on the one hand. Eastburn claims that Constable Crawford struck him in the eye with a black jack.

There will be a hearing in the case before Justice James on Friday, July 13th.

GRAND

Another famous name has come into motion pictures with the completion of Lillian Gish's new Metro-Goldwyn vehicle, "The Enemy," coming to the Grand Theatre. It is that of Ralph Waldo Emerson, famous American essayist and author. For Ralph Emerson, who plays the role of Bruce, one of Miss Gish's suitors in the picture, is a great-nephew of the celebrated man of letters and was in fact, named after him.

Incidentally, both Miss Gish's suitors in this picture are named Ralph—Ralph Forbes, leading man, and Emerson, his friend in the story.

The picture is a vivid drama of Austria adapted from Channing Pollock's noted stage play, and directed by Fred Niblo with a notable cast that includes Ralph Forbes, Ralph Emerson, George Fawcett, Frank Currier, Karl Dane, Polly Moran, John Peters, Billy Kent Schaefer, Fritz Ridgeway and others of note.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., July 9—(INS)—Margaret Smith, 29, who admitted to police that she stole a watch, silk dresses and shoes from dwellings in her neighborhood, was recently sentenced by Mayor Joseph Gault to read one chapter of the Bible daily for two and one-half years, to attend church each Sunday, in addition to reporting to police every three months.

BODY OF TRENTON MAN
FISHED FROM RIVER HERE

Identified as John Broccs, 617
Beatty Street, Trenton,
New Jersey

WAS 22 YEARS OF AGE

The body of a man was fished from the Delaware river here Saturday afternoon by two employees of the Superior Zinc Corporation who saw the corpse floating down the stream.

The body was identified late Saturday night as that of John Broccs, 617 Beatty street, Trenton, N. J.

The man was drowned at Morrisville on July 4th. He was enjoying a picnic along with the members of his family. The drowning was at once reported to Trenton authorities and police dragged the stream but without results.

When first seen here the body of the drowned man was floating down the river near the middle of the stream. It was first seen by Walter Horn, 1227 Pine Grove street and Floyd Tucker, 918 Spring street. They ran to the float of the Anchor Yacht Club where a boat was procured and the corpse brought into shore.

Deputy Coroner W. Furman Young was summoned and took the body to the morgue of the H. S. Rue Estate. Identification was made Saturday night by the man's wife and brother who came to Bristol.

Broccs had been married about eight months, it is stated. He was 22 years of age.

State News

DONORA, Pa., July 9—(INS)—Hens owned by Mrs. Fosta Healy, of Gallatin, recently laid three eggs, bearing the marking of the letters W, F and C, respectively. Local wheatears interpreted the last letter as meaning that President Coolidge would be renominated, but after the Republican Convention Mrs. Healy said she believed the letters didn't mean a thing.

HARRISBURG, July 9—(INS)—E. N. Jenckes, forest ranger in the Tioga district, advocated wider investigation of the value of bird life to forests in the bulletin of the Department of Forests and Waters, made public today.

Jenckes contends that there is a need for a special type of forest worker, a naturalist who would be interested in both the trees and the insect and animal life of the woods.

From his own observation Jenckes cites the large number of injurious insects which are consumed by birds. One pair of house wrens in feeding their young averaged 165 trips an hour from nearby coniferous trees, he said.

Another instance which he cites is the destruction of an ant hill six feet long and 30 inches high. He said the birds worked on it for seven successive days.

Assisting the birds in colonization and giving them protection will result in fewer dead trees and a more healthy forest condition, Jenckes asserted.

BELLEFONTE, Pa., July 9—(INS)—A twenty-one year old hotel bill, contracted without the knowledge of the proprietor in 1907, was recently paid by a man who refused to make public his name.

The man told a story of how he and two companions in 1907 had been married in Bellefonte and crept into the hotel without being seen by the proprietor. After a night's rest they left early in the morning, having no money to pay the bill. Payment was not refused when the man settled the bill recently.

BLAZE DAMAGES
BIANCO BARN HERE;
ORIGIN A MYSTERY

Flames Had Considerable Start
Before Alarm Was Sounded

INSURANCE CANCELLED

Due to Many Fires at the Place
Company Drops The Risk

Another of a series of fires which recently have occurred at the property of Peter Bianco, Beaver street and Fifth avenue, took place early last evening and gave the Consolidated Fire Department quite a battle. Every indication points to the fact that the fire had great headway before the alarm was sounded.

The second story of a frame barn was gutted and three adjoining houses were scorched. Two of the properties, 1120 and 1122 Fifth avenue are owned by Bianco and the third house is owned by William E. DeGroot.

When the firemen arrived they found the second story of the barn a roaring furnace. In fact the flames could be seen from various sections of the Borough and a large crowd was attracted to the scene thinking that the plant of Lucius Beebe was afire.

The firemen directed by Chief James L. McGee and his assistants first directed their attention to the saving of the surrounding properties and when this had been done they then extinguished the fire at the barn.

There have been a series of mysterious fires at the Bianco property during the last few months. The barn has been afire on numerous occasions. Yesterday Chief McGee questioned Bianco but he stated that he had left the property for about 15 minutes and when he returned found the building ablaze. It is almost certain that the fire had more than 15 minutes headway before the alarm was sounded.

It was learned this morning that due to the numerous fires at the place that in April the company holding the insurance had cancelled the same. Saturday afternoon the Consolidated Department was called to the gas plant of the Philadelphia Suburban Counties Gas & Electric Company, Mifflin and Swain streets.

The oil retorts used in the making of gas ignited the framework under the slate roof and also the wooden sash of the ventilators. The fire was unhandy to get at and it took the firemen quite some time to extinguish the blaze. The loss is put at about $50.

Free-For-All Fight At Sunday Polish Picnic

There was a free-for-all fight at the Polish picnic grounds yesterday down in Bensalem township. The grounds located at Oakford and Knight roads were thronged yesterday with the usual week-end picnic crowd.

A free-for-all fight started and Officer Hughes attempted to quell the disturbance and in turn became the center of the controversy. One man grabbed Hughes by the throat.

Two men were arrested and brought to Bristol, where they were lodged in the municipal jail. This morning they were given a hearing before Justice Laughlin and each was given the privilege of paying either a $10 fine or going to jail for 10 days on the charge of being drunk and disorderly.

Those arrested were: Walter Crawns, 3348 Livingston street, Philadelphia.

Raymond Pavo, 2532 Richmond street, Philadelphia.

RIVERSIDE

Found. A Russian without a title!

From among the horde of counts, dukes, arch-dukes and other emulances of a scattered aristocracy, there arises one Nicholas Kobliansky, who acted as technical advisor to Director Josef Von Sternberg in filming "The Last Command." Emil Jennings' latest Paramount picture which appears at the Riverside Theatre here, who does not claim a title.

Kobliansky, or "Nick" as he is known, comes, however, from aristocratic stock and could rightfully bear a title if he wished, but he is just plain "Nick" to all his acquaintances in Hollywood. His mother was the late Princess Cantakozon.

He was a captain in the Imperial foot guards of the Czar and first came to this country in the diplomatic service. Following the Revolution, he returned to this country, and since has been engaged in the motion picture profession.

HOOPER WINS FARM VOTE

There will be no drift by middle west farmers away from the Republican party in November. This is apparent to even the politically unschooled. The "farm revolt" never existed except in the fertile imaginations of a few politicians who had to promise their agricultural constituents something and could think of no better vote-getter than high-sounding schemes for making the farmer rich without working.

Before the national conventions farm bloc congressmen were talking of bolting their parties if the platforms failed to pledge some specific form of farm relief. Both platforms lack such a plank, but not a farm leader has deserted his party. Senator McNary has announced his whole-hearted support of the Republican ticket and predicts victory for Hoover and Curtis in every state of the Corn Belt. He argues that the majority of the farmers realize that for any substantial aid they must look to the Republican party.

Another farm bloc leader who has climbed aboard the Hoover-Curtis bandwagon is Representative Morton D. Hull, of Illinois, who was a Lowden man and a McNary-Haugen last ditcher. This significant statement comes from his lips: "The farmers throughout the Central West have no reason for leaving the Republican for the Democratic party. There is nothing in the Democratic platform that would give them any advantage over the Republican platform. The farmer realizes his difficulties in legislation and will not take the chances that go with changing horses in midstream and then be carted off in a chariot drawn by the Tammany Tiger."

The farmers did not march on Kansas City but they will march on the polls in November to vote the straight Republican ticket.

PRIVILEGE AND PILLAGE

The Democratic party would ride into national power on the sins of commission and omission of the Republican party as conceived and perceived by an omniscient Democracy. The party on the outside has nothing to offer but an unproved substitute for the party on the inside.

At Houston the keynote of the keynote speech and the rest of the spellbinding was "pillage and privilege." The message Democracy would convey to each group in this land of many groups is that the Republican party has robbed it to pay the rest. Peter is told he was robbed to pay Paul, and Paul is told he was pillaged and Peter privileged.

The Democratic keynote speech and platform both charge the Republican party with paternalism and "privilege." And then with true Democratic inconsistency they promise to raid the public treasury for the benefit of the farmer, to aid the little one-man business at the expense of the millions of stockholders and employees of large corporations, to enrich some at the expense of others.

Paternalism, pillage and privilege are written all over the Democratic platform. Ardent protectionism ever gathers its converts in the democracy whether under a Democratic or a Republican administration. The Democratic philippics against the Republicans do not promise that there shall be no more swag, but that the swag shall be diverted into Democratic channels. The only kind of pillage and privilege the Democrats are fighting is that which does not make Democratic votes.

ECHOES OF THE PAST

In the issue of Newtown Enterprise dated June 10, 1893, the following items of interest appeared:
At the regular monthly meeting of the Langhorne School Board, the principal, Mr. Ludy, declined reappointment and Elizabeth Lloyd was chosen in his stead.

Samuel C. Eastburn had sold to Joseph Ashbrook, of Philadelphia, for the Langhorne Improvement Company all that company's land on the south side of the railroad, about 94 acres for $7000.

Alfred C. Johnson, Bristol township, appointed by President Cleveland as Consul to Stuttgart, Germany, gave a dinner to some of his Bucks county friends at the Fountain House, Doylestown.

In a 35-year old copy of the same publication as above, dated May 6, 1893, we note the following:
John Insweiler, of Yardley, claimed to have a record egg. A Silver Wyandotte hen had laid an egg 7 3/4 inches long and 6 1/2 inches in circumference, weighing 3 ounces.

H. B. Sicksels, of Penn Valley, filed his application in the Treasury Department, at Washington, for the office of chief of the Treasury Division.

The Langhorne Brick Company started work with about twenty-five men.

The annual meeting of the Bucks County Contributionship was held at the office of William S. Mull, in Morrisville. Insurance in force was reported at $2,264,892.70.

The eighth anniversary of the Makefield W. C. T. U. was held at the home of Abdon Longshore.

Pupils attending West Chester Normal School from lower Bucks county were: Laura Balderston, Martha

There was a building boom on at Ivyland. Houses, barns, stores, a factory, and a lodge hall were being erected.

Among the graduates, at the sixtieth annual commencement of Jefferson Medical College, were Wilmer Krusen, Newtown, and Isaac F. Stover, of Erwinna. Before entering "Jeff" both these young men were students with Dr. Charles B. Smith.

The spacious cottage of Frank B. Wist, of Yardley, was nearing completion.

Mr. and Mrs. Burnett Landreth, of Bristol, had just celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary.

An observation wheel fifty feet high was erected on Morris Island, below Morrisville.

TO HOLDERS OF Third Liberty Loan Bonds

The Treasury offers a new 3 1/2 per cent. 12-15 year Treasury bond in exchange for Third Liberty Loan Bonds.

The new bonds will bear interest from July 16, 1928. Interest on Third Liberty Loan Bonds surrendered for exchange will be paid in full to September 15, 1928.

Holders should consult their banks at once for further details of this offering.
Third Liberty Loan Bonds mature on September 15, 1928, and will cease to bear interest on that date.

Secretary of the Treasury.
Washington, July 5, 1928.

Joseph A. Van Horn, of Yardley, had returned after an extensive trip to Newport News, Va., and adjacent parts.

A new mail schedule was proposed between Doylestown and Newtown. It was to leave Doylestown at 4 o'clock in the morning and to leave Newtown in time to reach Doylestown on the return trip at noon, leaving Doylestown again at 12:40 p. m. to return there at 8 at night. This schedule was considered unsatisfactory by the patrons.

SYNOPSIS

Lovely Rose Shannon, one of the dancing girls at Kelly's Kingside Cafe in the Bowery, has attracted the attention of Chuck White. He escorts her home. Later he tries to make passionate love to her. In desperation she seizes a clock and strikes him with it. Chuck drops unconscious. Terrified that she has killed him, Rose hastily packs her things and rushes into the night. In the meantime Chuck's confederate, "Sparrow," has robbed the Mercer National Bank, wounding the teller. An alarm is spread. In an armored car police pursue the automobile in which the bandits are trying to make their getaway.

CHAPTER IV—Continued

On and on. In and out of pillars. Off into side streets. All lights out. Blinding blackness. Swaying, skidding, barely missing corners, the two machines sped forward, exerting every bit of their power. Like two prehistoric animals, suddenly let loose, they seemed, as they tore through the night. Rata-tat-tat! Rata-tat-tat! The machine gun played its dance macabre. Then suddenly the holdup car swerved sickeningly; barely missed a lamp post; crashed upon the sidewalk, and jammed its nose with terrific force between two buildings.

The sudden, jarring impact threw the Mug from his seat and out into the narrow alleyway, sprawling on his back. On top of him came Sparrow, landing with a dull thud. Lefty, still clinging to the wheel, leapt from his post and made a dash for it up the street, leaving his companions with the deserted car. The Mug scrambled to his feet, dragging

"Well, watcha got in that suitcase, huh?"

Sparrow with him. He seized the satchel that still remained, because of its weight, on the floor of the car, and with the bag in one hand, and the Sparrow by the arm, he ran up the alleyway. And not a moment too soon for the police car was already slowing down with a screeching and grinding of brakes.

The bluecoats jumped from their positions in their car, a machine gun still popping, and sent a rain of bullets down along the alleyway. But the Mug and the Sparrow had already found a shelter, leading through a tortuous path, between two sheds. In the panic of driven fear they stopped for a moment, the low overhanging roof of the building protecting them. The Mug took hold of Sparrow's arm and shook him.

"If dat goddam Johnny'd been wif us, dis here racket'd been K. O. We gotta make a get-away, see!" The Mug turned on his miserable, quaking companion, his little pig-eyes moving swiftly about in his fat, pudgy face, searching for some means of escape.

"Chuck was comin'—he was down ta Kelly's tonight wif his Jane. I seen him!" Sparrow cringed as a rush of machine gun bullets spattered an adjacent wall.

"Yeah! Dat ain't doin' us no good now wif dem bulls campin' right on our tails!"

For a moment the two lay quietly beneath the sheltering eaves of the sheds. They could hear the steady tramp of feet; catch a glint of the searchlights that were weaving back and forth in the little blind paths that led in and about courtyards and buildings in an amazing and mysterious tangle. The rain oozed steadily down, dripping, dripping, dripping. They could feel it trickling down their collars.

"Jeez, wisht I had 'at benney!" The Sparrow shivered uncomfortably.

"Yeah! You'd make a hell of a swell get-away wif dat on. Good thing we parked 'em in de bus." Mug growled. "Give dem bulls somethin' to play wif. Dey can look at 'em—not us." He listened intently for a few moments. "Shut up!" he cautioned suddenly.

"Whassa matter?" Sparrow cocked one ear.

"Nuffin—too quiet." The Mug frowned suspiciously. "Dem bulls is sneakin' up on us. We gotta beat it!"

Once more his eyes roved about for some means of escape. There were the sheds with low, sloping roofs, slanting towards a board fence that closed off the street from view. The machine guns had quieted down now, emitting only an intermittent popping, but the Mug knew that it was just a question of time until they would be hunted down. As he looked at the satchel, reposing there beside them, a shudder of fear ran through him. Unconsciously, he pushed the bag from him, as though the very sight of it terrified him. Once caught with that, it would mean a stretch—probably a stretch up the river. Well, the Professor would have to get some one else to do his dirty work.

The Mug nudged his companion. "Shake a leg, we're gonna move," he muttered. Slowly he drew himself up, keeping carefully in the shadow of the fence. Noiselessly he lifted the satchel and with an upward heave he tossed the heavy bag onto the shed roof. For an instant it seemed to hesitate there and then slowly it slid off. They could hear the dull thud of it as it landed on the other side. Without another word he dragged Sparrow to his feet and the two fled into the misting night.

Around the corner the Mug noted the hurrying figure of a girl. He pulled Sparrow back and waited until she had passed, and then on they went. But Rose, still dazed from her evening's experience, saw nothing. Fear, and fear only, drove her on. And then suddenly, right in front of her lay a satchel. She had almost stumbled over it in the misty darkness. Startled, she came to an abrupt stop and stared. Finally she stooped down and picked up the bag. Its very weight made her drop it almost as quickly as she had taken it up. She bent over and saw that a circular metal tag bore the legend: "Mercer Day and Night Bank—Protected by William Scott, Agency."

Money! She rubbed her hands across her eyes. It seemed almost like an Arabian nights tale—unbelievable, like a flying carpet or something. Money dropped from the skies. Money! It could buy anything. Then suddenly she clenched her fist and laughed hysterically. What was she thinking of? She must return it to the detective agency. But it was so heavy she could scarcely carry it, and yet there was no one around to help her. She couldn't leave it alone there in the street, unclaimed. She stooped down again and picked up the bag. It bent her slim body almost sideways, but she managed to struggle on, hoping for assistance.

As she neared the corner, she saw a policeman hurrying forward. She stopped quickly and set down the bank satchel, still clutching her own bag. Suddenly her heart began to pound violently. Suppose the policeman thought she had taken it. Things like that did happen. She must get away. She turned and started to run, but in another moment the bluecoat had seized her arm.

"Just a minute there, sister." The man flung her about so that she faced the light, and looked her up and down suspiciously. "Well, watcha got in that suitcase, huh—likker? Come on, speak up!" He shook her as though to force the words from her mouth.

"No, Sir," she stammered, cringing.

But her manner was not one to convince the officer of any innocence on her part. Instead, he had clutched her arm more tightly, and now was stooping down and looking at the bag. Then he straightened up and gave a long, low whistle.

"So that's the game, eh? Well, young lady, I guess you ain't in such a hurry as you thought you was." He was quite sure now that this was the bag that had been stolen from the bank that night, and he was as sure as his name was Reilly, he knew who was going to get the credit for bringing in this haul. The moll was undoubtedly the cover for the gang. She was going to make the getaway. Probably they hadn't had the satchel in the car at all. That was why they ditched it with so little fuss.

"So that's the game," He nodded almost to himself. "Well I guess we'll want you right along at the station house, sister." Without more ado he pulled out a whistle and blew it shrilly.

As though the sudden shriek had brought her to her senses, Rose began to sob. "I found it on the street—really I did. No, no, please listen to me." She caught hold of his arm, tugging at his coat sleeve, as though to force him to hear her. "I tell you, I found it on the street," (To be continued.)

LEEDOM NINE LACES STRONG CAPITOL VIEW IX

Twilight League Aggregation
Wins Contest by Score of 18 to 5

JONES WAS IN THE BOX

(By T. M. Juno)

The Leedom's nine of the Bristol Twilight League traveled to Morrisville on Saturday afternoon and gave the strong Capitol View a good lacing, 18 to 5. "Milt" Jones, pitcher of the Field Club nine, twirled for the carpet makers and had the Morrisville nine at his mercy all during the game. Jones kept getting stronger as the game progressed but eased up in the final inning. Roy Lefler started on the mound for the firemen, but found the going so hard that he left the game with ten runs scored against him. Jack Phillips relieved him and fared no better.

"Jimmy" Mangan, first sacker for Mulholland's men, was the big man with the bludgeon, getting five out of five. "Shorty" Cooper got three out of three. Callahan injured his thumb in the eighth and was forced to leave the game.

The victory was a great boost for the locals as Capitol View has been going very strong, having defeated Keystone four times and holding victories over Langhorne, Hulmeville and Emille. The defeat to them Saturday was a big surprise.

Tennis Star at 11

St. Ann's Pound Fine For Thirteen Hits

Fine to Deitrick to McGerr to W. Fine. A tally went up for last year's champs in their part. Hibbs tripled. Kohler hit to Paletta and was thrown out. Hibbs held third. McGerr's daisy cutter was stopped by Roe and Hibbs was dead at the plate but Stallone dropped the ball. Cochrane fled to Roe and McGerr was doubled at first. Sagolla's men continued their scoring by counting again in the third. Roe was socked by a fast ball. Paletta sacrificed Roe to second. O'Riola fled to J. Fine. Stallone received a free ticket. Missera doubled, Roe tallying. Seneca fanned.
The "Saints" lead was cut down to one run in the Field Club's third. W. Fine walked. Beaton also walked. Dugan advanced both men by a sacrifice. J. Fine hit to Paletta who threw home to get Fine, but Stallone again dropped the ball. Deitrick rolled to Paletta and went out. Beaton wandered too far off third. O'Riola tried to nab him by throwing to Paletta, who dropped the ball, allowing Beaton to score. Hibbs grounded to Tulio.

A double-play put St. Ann's out of the road in the fourth. Tulio struck out. Fields tapped in front of the home saucer and was safe when Deitrick threw low to first. Gilardi rolled to Fine and Fields was doubled trying for third.
Kohler was safe on Paletta's error in the Field Club's fourth. McGerr fled to Fields. Cochrane walked. W. Fine's grounder was stopped by Roe, who stepped on second, forcing Kohler. His throw to first was a little wide. Beaton's fly was caught by Tulio.
Fine pitched his best ball in the fifth. Roe lifted to Dugan. Paletta and O'Riola whiffed.
Tulio made quick work of Beaton's men in their part. Fine rolled to O'Riola. Deitrick grounded to Roe.
Stallone rolled out to begin the sixth. Missera was hit by a pitched ball. Seneca singled. Tulio forced Missera at the hot corner. Fields' hard smash was stopped by W. Fine, who threw him out.
Fourteen men had been retired before another swat was made off Tulio. This came in the sixth. Hibbs and Kohler breezed. McGerr singled over second. Cochrane's fly was caught by O'Riola.
St. Ann's increased their lead by counting one again in the seventh. Gilardi slammed a two-bagger to left. Roe duplicated the hit. Gilardi counted. Paletta's foul was nabbed by McGerr. O'Riola rolled out. Stallone again fled to Kohler.
Field Club also counted in the seventh. Fine singled. Beaton fanned. Dugan was safe on a fielders' choice. J. Fine filled the hassocks by dropping a flunky hit over first. Deitrick lined to Missera. W. Fine scoring after the catch. Hibbs grounded to Paletta.
The "Saints" again tallied in their eighth. Missera singled and continued to third when Dugan threw over J. Fine's head. Missera counted on Seneca's single. Tulio fled to Fine. Fields rolled to McGerr and Seneca went out at the plate. Fields was doubled trying for third.
Field Club also scored in their part. Kohler doubled. McGerr was thrown out by Paletta. Cochrane hit to Roe who threw home too late to get McGerr. W. Fine lifted to Tulio. Beaton's fly was taken care of by Fields.
The Dorrance street boys won the game in this final bat. Gilardi and Roe singled. Paletta bunted and Gilardi scored from second by showing some real speed. This was enough for Fine and he left the premises. Jones took his place. O'Riola sacrificed and Roe scored. Stallone grounded to McGerr.
Field Club rallied to no avail in their final turn. Dugan and J. Fine lifted to Seneca. Deitrick doubled. McGlynn ran for Deitrick and stole third. Hibbs' single scored McGlynn.

Kohler ended the game by flying to Field Club..... 0 1 2 0 0 1 1 1-6	*Ran for Deitrick in the ninth.

Concession Committee Named For Lawn Fete

tune teller on the grounds and those who would like to know something of the future, will find this woman very interesting.

On Friday afternoon and evening a young woman from the Gypsy Tea Room, Chestnut street, Philadelphia, will also tell fortunes.

For the kiddies who enjoy riding in automobiles, a truck will be on hand, which will be driven by Wilson Speakman and he will take the children for a ride around the town for a very small fee.

Cards will also be played each afternoon and evening on the lawn. The committee in charge: Mrs. V. V. Vansant, Mrs. Harry Pope, Miss Frances Landreth, Miss Louise Swain and Mrs. Chester Beaton.

Numerous things will also be given away such as $2.50 in gold, large ham, bride doll, ton of coal, etc.

This lawn fete promises to be a very successful affair. The ladies are working hard and no doubt their efforts will prove that their work is not in vain.

NEW QUICK WAY SOAKS CLOTHES WHITER, SWEETER

"No Rubbing," Says Mrs. J. Flanagan, of 312 Otter Street

"My mother always used Rinso and I like it too. I always use it because it makes my clothes turn out white and sweet—cleaner than I ever saw them before. It has thick, lasting, cleansing suds that saves time and labor and clothes. There's no rubbing to do when Rinso washes the clothes. It's safe for very nice linens and easy on the hands, colors and fabrics. It's nice for dishes, windows, floors, woodwork, and all general house cleaning. I've recommended Rinso to quite a few friends who, like me, won't be without Rinso ever on washday or any day." (Signed) Mrs. J. Flanagan, 312 Otter St., Bristol, Pa.

It's So Safe!

Judge value by these things....

Simplicity, economy, quietness, roominess

GENERAL ELECTRIC Refrigerator

The General Electric Refrigerator is so simple that it hasn't a single exposed moving part. It hasn't a belt or a fan or a drain pipe. It has no connections or stuffing boxes. It never needs oiling because the hermetically sealed casing which holds all the mechanism also holds a permanent supply of oil.

A specially designed motor of low horse-power, but high efficiency, uses very little current. Then, too, the top unit design allows all the heat (extracted from the box and generated by the tiny motor) to be dissipated above the box—not to rise through it.

Standards of quietness, vary so widely that we can only invite you to listen to the refrigerators yourself to find how quietly they operate.

The remarkable compactness of the chilling chamber gives each model a greater shelf area than any other refrigerator of the same over-all size. All the models are set up on legs.

There is a wide range of models and prices. Come in and see them.
